

NICKERSON'S NEWS

Language Arts

We will be reviewing informational text strategies and practice these over the next 3 weeks.

Vocab will resume this week, but spelling is on hold until further notice. Over the past few months, we have covered most of the commonly misspelled words. As such, we will turn our focus to other studies, mainly vocabulary and prefixes/suffixes over the next quarter.

Math

We will continue reviewing the math packet for our mid-term. I am going to push back the mid-term to Friday. Unfortunately, it looks like winter break may have left us a little confused on some concepts, so I'd rather take a few more days and make sure we're prepared and understand the material being tested.

Students will have hw nightly for math this week.

Science/S.S

In Science we'll continue our study of weather patterns and conclude our earth science studies next week. We will take a mid-term the following week, 1/31. Please be mindful of science fair due dates.

In Social Studies we will finish our colony studies this week, and students will work on two in-class projects to assess their knowledge of the 1600-1800 history.

Science Fair: Please remember to use Times New Roman or Arial font with the size of 12 point when typing your science fair required documents. All documents should be double spaced. Look on our class website under "Links and Documents" for examples and templates.

Goals: Students put a lot of thought into creating new goals for the next two school quarters.
Parents: please ask your child about their goals. How can you encourage them to reach these goals? Can you help hold them accountable? Students: Use sticky notes to post your goals on your bathroom mirror so you can remind yourself every morning. ☺
